Lishia Vance went from having friends to totally abandoned. There's no explanation, just complete and utter social isolation. All after that new girl Chelsea came to town. The worst part, even her best friend Janelle isn't giving her the time of day. Lishia is now completely lost and lonely. She is baffled that she now has to find a new friend to hang out with. When she reconnects with Riley Atkins, it seems like she may have a new best friend, but after all her ex-friends were put through by Riley she wonders if Riley is really as good of a friend as she seems. Her desperation for a friend and to possibly make the cheer squad again have her completely ignoring her conscience and her faith. Not to mention making her do things she wouldn't normally do to stay on her "best friend's" good side. After her antics make her in too deep to get out unscathed she has to make the hardest decision of her life. Lose her only friend and do the right thing, or continue down the path she's on and potentially lose her soul. With Riley pushing her and pushing her she can only last so long before her conscience leads her, but she's scared of what will happen to her if she tells. Will she end up doing the right thing or will she be too scared to tell all? If she does tell what will Riley do, leave her alone or enact revenge? Not mention how will her friends and family feel about her if she tells? Why does high school have to be so complicated?----- I'm a huge fan of Melody Carlson, have been since I started reading in the young adult genre, and again she didn't disappoint my expectation of a realistic teen book that makes a teen think.
